CHIEF JUSTICE CLARK ANNOUNCES FOR SENATE

Outlines Platform, Advocating Election of Senators by People---Also Election of District Federal Judges and Postmasters.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, May 17.—Chief Justice Walter Clark, of the North Carolina Supreme Court, announced tonight his candidacy for the United States Senate against Senator Simmons and Governor Kitchin.

He outlines a platform that declares that the ruling of the United States Supreme Court in the Standard Oil case shifts the arena for the control of trusts from the courts to the United States Senate where the anti-trust laws must be amended. The people, he says, now control the House of Representatives.

He declares himself a progressive Democrat, which, he insists, is simply Jeffersonian Democracy. He advocates tariff for revenue only, constitutional amendments that will elect United States Senators by the people and federal judges by the people of the districts they serve, the election of postmasters by the people of the territory served, declares for "initiative and referendum" and recall for such officers as by law may be provided.

He advocates a Democratic primary the same day all over the state to nominate state officers and United States Senator under restrictions that will assure publicity as to the money expended, a second primary to be held for Senator, in the event there is no nomination in the first, the two highest to stand in second contest.

The letter announcing his candidacy is addressed to Solicitor Johnson, in reply to a lengthy letter from Johnson, insisting that if he intends to be a candidate his friends are entitled to know it with the least possible delay and reciting many things that constrain the writer to urge that Chief Justice to declare himself for the Senate. Judge Clark says he has been receiving letters from people in all parts of the state some time now, and he felt that the turn that has been given efforts for control of trusts by the Standard Oil decision affords him an opportunity to declare his candidacy.

BRANCH

Railroad Between Lillington and Broadway to be Built at Early Date.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, May 17.—President Jno. A. Mills, of the Raleigh & Southport railroad, verifies the report in this correspondence recently that he is getting under way the work of constructing a branch line of road from Lillington to Broadway. He says the right of way is now being cleared up for the grading to begin shortly. His plan is to get control also of the Atlantic & Western road from Sanford to Broadway, but if he fails in this he will build right on from Broadway to Sanford where he will connect with the Atlantic Coast Line, the Seaboard Air Line and the Southern. Mr. Mills is carrying forward his railroad building, he says, without burdening the people with bond issues.

MRS. MURPHY'S FORTUNE GOES TO THOMAS FELDER.

Special to Telegram.

Nashville, Tenn., May 17.—When a deed was filed here today by the Columbia Finance and Trust Company, of Louisville, the fact first became known that the million dollar estate of Mrs. Annie B. Murphy, of Nashville, who died in New York on April 1, descends to her adopted child, Thomas J. Felder and the latter's wife. Mrs. Murphy's will carries into effect an agreement made ten years ago between Mrs. Murphy and her husband, Samuel Murphy, the Tennessee Street Railway capitalist.

Felder is a son of a Georgia country lawyer and was a protege of Austin Corbin, of New York, as a stenographer in Corbin's Atlanta office and eventually headed the concern's land department at a salary of $3,500 per year. He afterwards met Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, who liked the Felders, and being childless adopted them.

DAN FOOTE COBLE FOUND DEAD IN HOG PEN YESTERDAY

Noted Character of Green Township Succumbed to Heart Trouble While Feeding Animals—Was Tried for Being Accomplice in Murder of Son About Year ago.

Dan Foote Coble, of Green township, was found dead in his hog pen yesterday morning shortly after sunrise. Coble had gotten up and eaten his breakfast as usual and was feeding his hogs when he suddenly fell dead of heart trouble, falling into the pen in which the hogs were confined. He was found a few minutes later by his daughter.

Coroner Wood was notified and accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Crutchfield and "Buddy" Edwards, hurried to the scene in an auto. Dr. Gilmer, who lives in the country, was also summoned and he pronounced the death a natural one. He stated that he had attended Mr. Coble on numerous occasions and knew that he was a sufferer from heart trouble. No inquest was held.

Although the deceased remained in the hog pen but a short while the brutes had eaten off one ear and gouged out an eye before the body was removed from their reach. Coble was about 77 years of age.

Coble, it will be remembered, was tried in Guilford Court about a year ago on the charge of being an accessory after the fact in the murder of his son, Ed Coble. His son-in-law, Hiram Elliott, was convicted and sentenced to a term in the state prison for manslaughter. The murder and the trial aroused considerable interest throughout the entire county at the time.

In Interest of Freight Rates.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, May 17.—Corporation Commissioner W. T. Lee has gone to Washington, D. C., to confer with the Interstate Commerce Commission relative to a number of matters pending before the Interstate Commission in which the North Carolina Commission has especial interest. One of the most notable matters that is pending is the case of the North Carolina Commission against the Norfolk and Southern Railroad Company in which the Interstate Commission has already ruled in favor of the North Carolina Commission that the Norfolk & Western must put on lower freight rates from points west and Virginia cities to Winston-Salem and Durham, North Carolina terminals of the defendant railroad. This case, it will be remembered, has been appealed to the newly created Commerce Court by the railroad companies and is soon to be argued.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM ALONG ROUTE OF PROPOSED RAILROAD

Chamber of Commerce Party Met Hearty Reception at Every Stop Between Greensboro and Henderson---Big Gatherings at Roxboro and Oxford---Believed That Every County Affected will Vote Bonds for Railroad---Roads in Fair Condition Along Entire Route.

(By J. T. FAIN.)

Henderson, May 17.—Escorted by a large delegation of citizens of Henderson the automobiles in the Greensboro Chamber of Commerce reliability run arrived here this afternoon at 6 o'clock, having met with a most hearty reception at every village, town and city, in fact at every cross roads store, between Greensboro and Henderson. At many points the people from the adjacent country were at the roadside to see the cars go by and shouts of "Hurrah for Greensboro and the new railroad," were heard on all sides.

Enthusiasm At Roxboro.

The cars left Greensboro at 7:40 o'clock and pulled up in front of the court house in Roxboro at 10:48. A large delegation of Roxboro citizens met the party several miles from the city and escorted them into town. An enthusiastic meeting was held in the court house at which Mayor M. C. Winstead, of Roxboro, presided and welcomed the Greensboro people. Others who spoke were W. D. Merritt and L. M. Carlton for Person county. A. L. Brooks, A. B. Kimball, G. S. Bradshaw, J. W. Fry and R. C. Hood made short speeches in favor of the new railroad as representatives of Greensboro. Everybody seemed in high spirits over the thoughts of a railroad and were anxious to have an opportunity to vote for bonds to assist in making the project a success.

Big Crowd At Oxford.

After dinner the party left Roxboro at 1:45 and rolled into Oxford at 3:40. Here the greatest enthusiasm prevailed, but there was no speech making. However, the concensus of opinion was that Granville county would be one of the first counties to vote bonds to assist in bringing a new railroad into the county.

Oxford to Henderson.

The pacemaker pulled out of Oxford at 5:30 o'clock, there being eight cars from Henderson to accompany the delegation into the county seat of Vance. Here the enthusiasm was at its height The people of Henderson are planning to build a road from here to Enfield, Nash county, 45 miles away, making connections there with the Atlantic Coast Line. Castalia, a Nash county town, has already voted $35,000 bonds for the proposed line. With the connection at Enfield with the Coast Line and at Henderson with the Greensboro and Roxboro road this road would give Greensboro a direct outlet to the seaport towns.

Believed Every County Will Vote Bonds.

It is believed that every county through which the proposed railroad will pass will vote bonds. In fact, the hundreds of expressions heard on all sides today as brief stops were made at scores of places were all in favor of voting bonds and not a dissenting voice has so far been heard. The people of the communites through which the road would pass have never had an opportunity to do their best on account of their "bottled-up" condition and they are looking upon the project as one of great commercial value to their section. Consequently every legitimate effort will be exerted to secure the relief a road would afford.

Rich Country Traversed.

The country through which the road would pass is one of the richest in the state. The lands are the finest tobacco soil, but the farmers have heretofore been compelled to haul their products miles to market and consequently the production of the weed has been limited. Then there are thousands of acres of timbered lands, from which the very best oak timber, such as is used in the manufacture of furniture, can be marketed with but little expense. With the new road in operation this timber would be easily accessible to Greensboro and the furniture manufacturing business in that city would at once take on a boom.

Telegram's Slogan Used.

The Chamber of Commerce distributed a large amount of advertising all along the route. Several of the automobiles carried large signs bearing The Telegram's slogan—"Going, Growing Greensboro." Everybody was talking Greensboro and the Greensboro-Roxboro railroad at every stop.

Roads In Good Condition.

That the roads were in good condition is evidenced by the good time maintained today. The roads through Guilford and Alamance were in fine condition and in Orange, Caswell and Person they were in passable condition, but not so good. In Granville and Vance they were a little better. All along the entire route the worst places had been worked and put in as good condition as possible in order that the run could be made as scheduled.

The Cup Contestants.

No official figures regarding the contest for the cup could be procured tonight. All of the cars made good time, however. The drivers of the cars contesting are Overland-Lewisburg, N. Y. McAden; Abbott-Detroit, Garland Ricks; Cadillac, G. C. Thomas; Case, entered by J. H. Miller, of Salisbury; C. M. Sides; Overland, entered by the American Motor Company, R. G. Sloan. Z. V. Conyers joined the party this morning and W. S. Diffee met the party at Burlington and accompanied the autos on the trip.

Millionaires May Turn From the Automobile To the Aeroplane In Search For New Recreation.

At the recent aviation meet at Bridgeport, Conn., Hon. William E. Burnham and General Henry A. Bishop, wealthy bankers of that city, were conspicuous in their enthusiasm over the flying game, and it has since been reported that one or both of them have been seriously considering the purchase of an aeroplane. Several millionaires, tiring of the monotony of their automobiles, have evidenced an interest in the newer sport. Prominent among these are Clifford B. Harmon and J. Armstrong Drexel, both of whom have become famous in the aviation field. Mr. Drexel has appeared in a number of public competitions, while Mr. Harmon flies solely for pleasure.

COMPACT SIGNED; PEACE IN MEXICO IS NOW A REALITY

Diaz and Carroll Will Both Resign During Present Month—De La Barre Will be Provisional President Until Election.

Special to Telegram.

Mexico City, May 17.—At the conclusion of the cabinet meeting this morning a member of the cabinet announced that the peace compact had been signed and that peace throughout Mexico is now a reality. Diaz and Vice President Corrall will both resign during the month, Minister of Foreign Affairs De La Barre, the future provisional president, after consulting Madero will reorganize the cabinet. He will name for secretary of war the general having the confidence of the army. The public will view it as practically a joint presidency until the new presidential election to be held within six months. Political amnesty is to be recommended to the chamber of deputies.

The peace conditions in high quarters are virtually admitted to be a complete surrrender to the revolutionists. Diaz is suffering with great pain and is in bed, speaking only with great difficulty, because of an ulcerated tooth.

Minister of Finance Limantour stated that the government had paid its war expenses from its contingent funds and that no new bond issue would be necessary.

Madero Says Its Best Way to End War.

Juarez, May 17.—Madero said tonight: "If General Diaz and Corrall resign its the best way of ending the war, even better than any treaty could possibly be without that basis."

Will Oust Police Commissioner.

Special to Telegram.

New York, May 17.—It is reported tonight that Police Commissioner Cropsey will be out within 49 hours, either by his resignation or removal. Cropsey is accused of violating the civil service law in appointing 48 policemen illegally, the accusation being set out in a letter from Civic Service Commissioner James Creelman. Former Chief John McCulloch and Former Deputy Flynn are mentioned for the place.

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED G. F. C. GRADUATES BY MRS. ROBERTSON

Graduating Exercises Yesterday Morning Featured by Address by Dr. H. N. Snyder, of South Carolina—Annual Concert Last Evening by Music Graduates.

The graduating exercises of the class of 1911 of Greensboro Female College were held yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the college auditorium, a large audience being present to witness the exercises. Following prayer by Rev. Mr. Crutchfield, of Kentucky, and an instrumental selection by Messrs. Roy Lahser and Robeson, Mrs. Robertson, president of the college, presented the certificates and diplomas to the graduates of the college and of the several departments. Mrs. Robertson made a short talk in which she reviewed the work of the college. Bibles were presented to each member of the graduating class, the name of each young lady being engraved on her Bible. Rev. E. K. McLarty presented the Bibles, urging that each graduate make it a point to regularly study the truths found in the book.

The literary address was by Dr. Henry N. Snyder, of Wofford College, and was an able effort. His subject was "What the Campus and the College means in the Life of the Student." He said that the greatest value of the four years spent inside the walls of a college is found in the standard of excellence in the work and achievement raised there. He declared that work ill done partakes of the nature of immorality and that one reaches highest when he stoops lowest. The address was listened to by the graduates with much interest and many gems that fell from the lips of the speaker went home to the hearts and minds of his hearers.

The members of the graduating class are: Mary Harrison Barnwell, Leone Tyree Battle, Alice Blanchard, Winnie Davis Bruton, Ruth Louise Coltrane, Julia Fitch Crutchfield, Ada Myrtle Dean, Huldah Thomas Hambrick, Edwin Wood Hunt, Linnie Cornelia Mann, Nora May Stallings, Maude Hester Upchurch, Annie Terrell Woodley.

The Annual Concert.

The annual concert by the graduates from the music department was given last night in the college auditorium, there being a large and appreciative audience present to enjoy the occasion. The program was a varied one and was rendered in faultless style, each of the performers demonstrating the fact that she had received careful instruction from accomplished musicians.

To say which of the numbers were most enjoyed would hardly be possible and then the renditions would have to be heard to be appreciated. The program in full follows:

Will Have Commercial Club to Take Place of Chamber of Commerce.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, May 17.—On the strength of a report from Secretary F. A. Olds that unless the membership is increased to at least two hundred it would be useless to continue the organization of the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce after August 31, when the fiscal year ends, that body is launching a movement for the formation of the Greater Raleigh Club designed to take the place of the Chamber of Commerce, merging it with the Merchants' Association and that element of the younger business men who carried forward so successfully the campaign for the Raleigh Y. M. C. A. building fund. A. A. Thompson, E. B. Crow, M. Rosenthal and Col. F. A. Olds, secretary, were named as a committee from the Chamber of Commerce to work up a mass meeting of the business men to take steps for the formation of the new commercial club.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE ADVERTISING COLUMNS OF THE TELEGRAM.

The importance of the advertising columns of The Telegram is a matter which has probably not impressed the readers of the paper as deeply as it should have done. The advertising published in the daily papers is of much greater importance than the average person supposes. Advertising is the news of business, and as a rule it is of greater value to the public than the news of events. The latter gives the reader pleasure or adds to his store of knowledge or keeps one informed in regard to current events, but the news of the stores and the news of business contained in the advertisements is financially profitable . It is news affecting the pocketbook, the income and the expenditures of the readers of newspapers. The question of making a living and of the cost of living is a problem of large proportions and of vital importance in the average family. The advertising in the daily papers deals with the problem of living, with the cost of living; and if the advertising is intelligently followed and the opportunities told of in the advertisements are used to the advantage of the reader, it is a simple matter to turn the advertisements to profit, to effect savings in household expenses thereby and to make the advertising columns of the daily paper contribute largely to the solution of questions of household economy.

Those persons who continuously and carefully read the advertising columns of The Telegram and take advantage of special sales, of price reductions and of the various offers made by the merchants of the city are saving money as a result of their foresight and efforts. It has been said that money saved is money made. Consequently the money saving advertisement readers among The Telegram's subscribers are making money as a result of reading the advertising columns of this paper.

It is ridiculous to assert that it does not pay to read the advertisements in the daily paper. It is as nonsensical as to assert that it does not pay to advertise. It pays advertisers to advertise and it pays the people to read the advertisements of the advertisers. Frequently there are advertised in The Telegram for only one day, perhaps, certain articles at special prices. Often these are articles of merchandise sold at standard prices, and some times they are offered at cost or less than cost, simply for the purpose of creating interest among the people and inducing them to visit the store which is making the offer. This course is entirely legitimate and is eminently fair to the public. In a case of this kind readers of the advertisements may go to the store and purchase the specials and buy nothing else, if they wish; or they may make other purchases at regular prices. The merchant merely offers specials to induce people to visit his store and because he wishes to have them call, buy the special if they desire, but see other goods and probably make other purchases. This is optional with the patrons of the store.

Specials, however, are not the only inducements offered by the advertisers. The regular store news is worthy of attention and of careful reading. The news of new goods, of fresh arrivals in the various departments, the items about the latest fashions, the prices—in fact, all the details of store news should interest the public and ought to be the means of helping them to buy to the best advantage and with the greatest amount of satisfaction.

These are some of the purposes of modern store advertising and some of the reasons on which its wonderful success is based.

The merchant needs advertising, the newspaper needs advertising and the public needs advertising.

The merchant must have it to make his business go successfully.

The newspaper must have it, because advertising is the chief source of revenue of newspapers.

The public needs the advertising because it is the medium of communication between the dealer who has merchandise to sell and the people to whom he expects to sell his merchandise.

Readers of The Telegram should read all the advertisements in this paper as carefully and as regularly as they read the news. To do so means to save and to make money.

MR. HAYWOOD IN HARNESS AGAIN.

Mr. R. W. Haywood, former owner and editor of The Greensboro Telegram, is now connected with the editorial department of the Richmond Virginian. Mr. Haywood has many friends in North Carolina who will be interested to know that he has again entered the field of journalism. The Greensboro Telegram wishes Mr. Haywood much success in his new field.

Greenville Piedmont notes the fact that Asheville is growing. Certainly; the population of Asheville increases rapidly every summer and is largely added to by migration from South Carolina.

With so much scrapping among themselves and expending so much time and effort in hammering North Carolina and its towns, the newspapers of South Carolina are kept very busy.

SOME EARLIER "MERGING."

In the use of the term "merger" as applied to cotton mills in the South, ignorance and confusion are in abundant evidence. The merging process has been going on, in one way or another, and under one name or another, for years.

About five or six years ago a single cotton goods commission house in New York obtained the controlling interest in at least five mills in South Carolina and perhaps others in this and other States. While these mills are operated as distinct corporations, the controlling owner presumably dictates their general management. The number of spindles and looms under its practically absolute direction is approximately as large if not larger than that of the Parker Cotton Mills company. Shareholders in some of those mills stoutly but vainly resisted the "merging" process.

About six years of hopeless financial embarrassment caused the merging of two of the great mills in Union county, the Union Mills and the Buffalo Mills, and the new resulting corporation owns spindles and looms and properties that make it as great a consolidation as some of those now said to be in contemplation. This "merger" was justified because it seemed the best and shortest way out of a bankrupt condition. Had the way been clear to fortify Union and Buffalo by combining them with strong mills before their crippling had gone too far, share-holders, operatives and everybody concerned would have benefited. If it be true—and it is true—that the present condition of the Southern mill industry is precarious, it is quite possible that fore-handed measures, consolidation being one, will save not only share-holders loss but thousands of spinners, weavers and carders from the hardship of being thrown out of employment.

Meantime The State in recent months, has discussed fully the merging movement in the South and has not refrained from declaring plainly the dangers as well as the benefits to be derived from it and, so far as we have observed, it is the only South Carolina newspaper that has advised the people to watch these operations carefully.

While there is no cause to sound an alarm, what should give the people of the State most anxiety now to the prolonged unfavorable condition of the textile industry. With some of the strongest mills, having large surpluses accumulated in prosperous years, reducing their dividends and others passing their dividends, the prospect of reduction in wages and more extended shutting down of machinery will appear less dim unless there shall be a change for the better; and one has yet to hear of a politician or demagogue who could make mill wheels move—Columbia State

THE KEY MONUMENT.

Complaint has been made against "The Star-Spangled Banner" on the ground that it is bad poetry, on the ground that is celebrates a cheap and windy brand of patriotism, and on the ground that the tune to which it is sung is somewhat beery and altogether unsingable. "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" and "Maryland, My Maryland" have had to face much the same sort of attack, and yet the three anthems continue to hold the favor of the people and no rival is within a thousand miles of them.

"The Star-Spangled Banner," for all its faults, yet remains a noble and a beautiful song. What American, hearing it sung by a great chorus or played by a great band, can sit through it without emotion? It may be screechy, true enough—but why shouldn't we screech a bit when the flag flutters in the breeze and the guns sound their salute and the theme of the hour is the glory of our country?

It so happens that of the three anthems which have survived by being fittest two are of direct and special interest to Marylanders, for both were written by Maryland men and both were inspired by the peril of Maryland's one big city. Until a short while ago, strangely enough, Baltimore showed little appreciation of this great and double honor. Now, however, there is a bronze table at Fort McHenry, marking the place where Francis Scott Key searched for the star-spangled banner through the glare and smoke of battle, and today a dignified monument to Key is being unveiled on Eutaw Place.

The start is well made. Let a memorial to James Ryder Randall follow. He and Key were not poets of the first rank, perhaps, but in the hour of hazard and dismay the humble song of each was worth a host, and so we should hold both bards in memory today and make sure that they are not forgotten by the generations to come.—Baltimore Sun.

MRS. WILSON IS BELOVED.

Wife and Three Daughters of Jersey Governor Fond of Art and Outdoor Pastimes.

While Gov. Woodrow Wilson is making his "swing-around-the-circle" trip in the West, Mrs. Wilson and her three daughters, Misses Elanor Randolph Wilson, Jesse Woodrow Wilson and Margaret Woodrow Wilson, are being hailed as the next tenants of the White House by hundreds and hundreds of friends. When the White House is mentioned Mrs. Wilson and her daughters only smile and make no comment.

Friends insist on telling Mrs. Wilson what a beautibul first lady of the land she will make, but the Governor's wife, who has virtually been a partner in her husband's career, always makes it a point to change the subject. Like the Governor, Mrs. Wilson tries in every way possible to leave politics out of her home life. She is always pleased, however, to listen to praise of her husband's official acts, as she studied with him a plan to bring about reform in New Jersey without the necessity of the "big stick."

Mrs. Wilson and her daughters are now living in the Princeton Inn, where Dr. Wilson engaged a suit of rooms after leaving Prospect, the beautiful home of the president of Princeton University. The Governor and his family will probably occupy "The Little White House," New Jersey's summer capitol in Sea Grit, for the greater part of the summer, but they expect to spend several weeks at the Wilson summer home, at Lyme, Conn., where many art students avail themselves of instructions under the direction of Frank Vincent Dumond, of the New York Art League.

Mrs. Wilson possesses much artistic talent and delights in sketching and painting landscapes. It was while she was studying at the New York Art League that she met Dr. Wilson. From that time his interests have been uppermost in her mind. He was then a student at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. He has already been known through his work on "Congressional Government," which was accepted by the faculty as his doctor's thesis. This was considered a remarkable production for a young man 27 years old. It has since been extensively quoted by editors and other writers.

Few are aware that the land on which Princeton University stands was donated by Mrs. Wilson's great-great-uncle, Nathaniel Fitzrandolph. Four generations of this family were born and died in Princeton before Isaac Fitzrandolph II, who was Mrs. Wilson's great-grandfather, moved to Columbia, S. C. Later descendants were known as the Randolphs, using the initial "F" for Fitz, preceding the name. Theodore F, Randolph, elected Governor of New Jersey in 1868, was one of these.

Mrs. Wilson is a sister of Prof. Stockton Axson, head of the department of English literature at the university, and of the wife of Dean Elliot White. A fact of interest is that the father of Mrs. Wilson and the Governor were both clergymen.

Mrs. Wilson has been termed a notable example of the power of women without the ballot. Her home life is ideal, and although sought by all the representatives os social circles she is supremely devoted to the society of her husband and her daughters. She is pleased to avoid the slightest embarrassment on the part of others, and this alone enables her to accept graciously the curiosity of the public. One would not be dazzled by meeting Mrs. Wilson, but would be impressed with the kindness and modest selfpossession of a cultured, capable and sincere woman.

The Misses Wilson, who, like their mother, are of a sunny disposition and artistic temperament, have been away a considerable time from Princeton for the last few months in their respective pursuits of voice culture, sociological work and art study.

Mrs. Wilson and her daughters are equestriennes of, no mean ability and are fond of outdoor pastimes. Miss Margaret, the eldest of the three daughters, has a charming voice. She spends hours each day cultivating this. She, too, loves the brush.

The second daughter, Miss Jessie, devotes much of her time to sociological work. She is interested in settlement work in Philadelphia and has accomplished much in this direction.

The youngest daughter, Miss Ellen, who, in character, perhaps, most resembles here father in his overflowing good spirits, inherits from her mother her ability as an artist, and her time is largely occupied wielding the brush. —Philadelphia North American.

Advertising Talks

H. G. B.

IT IS IMPORTANT that readers of newspapers READ very carefully the ADVERTISEMENTS that are appearing from day to day. The smart BUYER has learned that there is economy in watching for the specials. The UP-TO-DATE PROGRESSIVE MERCHANTS from day to day advertise to sell certain articles in their stock at REDUCED PRICES, they do this because they want to get the buyers to come to their stores. The legitimate merchants do not advertise fake bargains, but real values. They don't expect to make money on any of these special sales—and frequently they sell the goods on special days at COST—and some times BELOW COST. They charge up what is apparently a loss to them to their advertising account, for they add regular customers to their list by attracting new people by these special bargains.

The UP-TO-DATE MERCHANT makes it a rule to turn over his stock with each season. It has been found more profitable in these modern times to clean out the stock even if it is to be done at a loss on some part of it, than to carry over stock from one season to the other. The BUYER should be just as progressive and up-to-date as the merchant is. He should watch for such opportunities and take advantage of them. Not only can women find bargains, but men as well. They find shirts, clothing and furnishings of all descriptions and of the best makes offered at greatly reduced prices in these sales.

READ the advertisements that are appearing from day to day, patronize the merchants who are advertising. Call for the specials that are offered; tell the merchant or his clerk where you saw the advertisement and that you are coming to take advantage of his offer. In this way you will encourage the merchant to increase the number of these special sales, thus giving you more opportunities for buying at reduced prices.

IN GREENSBORO, THE TELEGRAM, THE PAPER THAT GOES HOME, THAT PRINTS ALL THE NEWS THAT IS FIT TO PRINT WHILE THE BLOOM IS ON IT, WILL CARRY SPECIAL BARGAINS FROM DAY TO DAY FOR THE PROGRESSIVE AND UP-TO-DATE MERCHANTS HERE. Read these adds and patronize the counters where the bargains are offered.

Appendicitis and many other ills come from Constipation and over-loading with food which the system cannot care for. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIPS

College Men Busy Preparing For Annual Meet In Cambridge.

PENN'S CHANCES LOOK GOOD.

Red and Blue Team Well Balanced. Cornell Strong In Distance Events. Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Michigan Will Be Factors.

After months of practice college athletes are now putting the finishing touches on their training for the intercollegiate track and field meet which will be held in the Harvard stadium, Cambridge, Mass., May 26 and 27.

The 1910 meet was productive of only one record, but in view of the great performances of a number of men in their preliminary workouts it would not be surprising if records by the wholesale should go by the board in the stadium.

Although dual meets have been scarce so far this season, there have been occasions on which the merits of the various teams can be judged. Nearly all the universities, with the exception of Princeton and Pennsylvania, have lost heavily by graduation, but new men from the under class of a year ago have been developed, so that this meet should be as interesting as any of its predecessors.

Craig of Michigan, Reidpath of Syracuse, Berna of Cornell, Chisholm of Yale, Burdick of Pennsylvania and Joe Horner of Michigan, all winners of events last year, are still in competition, to say nothing of any number of the men who scored second, third and fourth places for their respective teams. As races on paper do not always come true when the men are running along on the actual cinder path, predictions as to the outcome of the meet seem a little out of place. However, in reviewing the material that is on hand for this year's tests it is probably best to begin with Pennsylvania, the winner of the 1910 meet.

The Quakers, despite the loss of Ramsdell, who showed up so brilliantly a year ago, will be very strong in the sprints, for Minds has been running up to his old time standard.

For the longer distances Murphy has a lot of good men in Billy Paull, Boyle, Foster, Gray, Church, Levering and Wolle. On the whole, the Quakers have a good fighting chance to repeat their victory of a year ago.

Yale has been greatly weakened since the 1910 meet, although George Chisholm, winner of the high hurdles at the Penn relay meet recently, and Robert Gardner, who tied with Babcock of Columbia in the pole vault last year, are still in college. Yale can't reasonably hope for much this year.

Cornell, as usual, is not very strong in the spring, but has some corking good men for the distance events. However, with the squad Trainer Moakley has on hand the Ithacans are hoping that the Red and White's chances in the intercollegiates may be better when the time comes around than they seem to be now on paper.

At Harvard things seem to be a little better than they were last year, although none of the performances in the class games were especially notable.

Princeton still has Cook, Dwight, Spears and Simons, who scored in the intercollegiates last year, and several other men who look very promising.

Michigan has three stars who will probably show up very well in the intercollegiates. Craig, who won the 220 last year, is running better than ever. Horner should have things his own way in the shotput, and Hanavan will give Paull the run of his life in the mile.

Dartmouth has some very good material this year, of which Harry Hillman is making the most.

Harry Babcock, the captain of the Columbia team, seems to be about the only man the Blue and White has who can be relied upon to do much of anything.

WHY STOVALL'S WORK IS POOR

Cleveland's First Baseman Is Peculiar Victim of Playing Beside Lajoie.

For several seasons Cleveland fans have been asking, What is the matter with George Stovall? These fans demand that the club get a first sacker of the caliber of Hal Chase. The Naps' management has tried out many men on the initial bag in the last few seasons, but all have been sent back to the minors, and Stovall still continues to be guardian of the initial station. The real answer to the question asked by the fans is short. One word of six letters, L-a-j-o-i-e, answers it all.

George appears to have suffered from working beside one of the greatest players in the country for several years. It is a peculiar case of a star ball player spoiling the fielding ability of a mediocre one.

Stovall perhaps covers less ground around first base than any other first sacker in the American league, and all because for a number of years he has been working beside the peerless Lajoie, who not only covered all of his own territory, but also a good portion of Stovall's.

GEORGE STOVALL, CLEVELAND'S FIRST BASEMAN.

Any Nap fan will tell you that Stovall's greatest weakness is going to his right after a grounder. He simply can't get over the ground.

Stovall isn't naturally a shirker; he's a good, hard worker, and he has plenty of baseball brains, but he is getting fearfully weak in fielding. Going to the left he is as good as any of them, and he has made some remarkable catches. He is just unfortunate in that he has had to play beside one of the most wonderful players in the game.

CRAWFORD IN GREAT SHAPE.

"Wahoo Sam" Playing a Wonderful Game For the Tigers.

When the last season drew to a close it was the general opinion that Sam Crawford, the Detroit American heavy hitting outfielder, was on the down grade and that this would probably be his last season in a major league. Today Crawford is leading the American league batters with an average considerably over .400, and he is playing a better game of ball than he ever has played before in his long career.

There is no doubt that a player of Crawford's disposition would be affected by any misunderstanding he might have with a teammate, and his quarrel with Cobb undoubtedly threatened to end his days of usefulness to the Detroit club. But the difference between this wonderful pair of hitters has been smoothed over, with the result that Crawford and Cobb are playing great ball these days and are really responsible for the brilliant showing the Tigers have made to date.

Cricket to Be Livelier.

To make cricket livelier English progressives are to narrow the bats and make the stumps higher. It takes three days to play a match under present rules. The new bat will be three and a half inches wide instead of four and a quarter.

DIAMOND SIZZLERS

Fred Clarke caught ten flies in left the other day—record for the season, probably.

Davy Altizer is playing better ball at shortstop for the Cincinnati Reds than any one has since the days of Tom Corcoran when he was in his prime.

Captain Harry Davis of the Athletics has not been hitting the ball with any degree of luck this season. Dan Murphy, however, is hitting enough to make up for the two.

Jake Stahl has been forgotten by Boston fans. Catcher Williams, who was drafted from the Buffalo club, is filling Stahl's shoes as first baseman for the Red Sox in splendid style.

Vincent Campbell, who had decided to retire from baseball to enter business, is now clamoring for a chance to be taken back by Manager Clarke. Baseball looks good when you are on the outside looking in.

Ty Cobb rubs tobacco juice into all of his new bats, so that the business end of the stick is rough. Billy Sullivan and Manager Duffy of the Sox objected to these bats when they were in Detroit recently, but the ruling of the umpire was that they were all right.

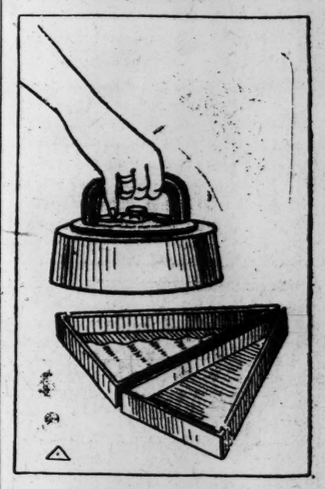
X Rays Show Bones of Feet That Are Worth Fortune to a Dancer

EDUCATION is as important when applied to one extremity as to the other. For instance, Miss Bessie Clayton has highly educated toes. To be sure, she has not neglected her mind either, and she has many charms of person, but her educated toes and the muscles that control them are in more ways than one her real support. Miss Clayton was well known as a dancer in the United States a few years ago. She retired from the stage for a time, and when she resumed her career she resumed it in London, and just now she is the rage over there. So great was the curiosity about the ease with which she could support herself on her toes without using metal toe caps or other supports that X ray pictures were made to show the formation of the bones of her nimble feet. The manner in which the foot is arched while Miss Clayton is dancing is clearly shown.

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Convenient Flatiron Cleaner and Polisher.



An effective cleaning and polishing device for sadirons has been designed by a New Jersey man. It consists of a triangular box in two parts and large enough to permit of the free movement of the iron within its boundaries. In the bottom of one side of the box is a felt pad, which is saturated with oil. On top of this is laid a piece of fabric sufficiently porous to allow of moistening from the lower pad. In the other side of the box is a piece of corrugated metal. To clean an iron the implement is rubbed over the oil soaked cloth till the rust on it is softened. It is then rubbed over the corrugated metal and the surface cleared of grit as far as the corrugations can do this. The final polishing is done with a dry flannel cloth. The box is made with the two parts hinged so that they can be folded up when it is not in use and will not take up so much room.

THREE THOUSAND YEARS AGO.

I WAS a shepherd of Tempe;
You were a maid of Tyre.
What ship could it be brought oversea
You and your eyes of fire?
You and your blue and purple,
Your hair in a twisted spire,
Your soft little form so light and warm,
The heav'n of my heart's desire.

I carried you off to Tempe,
Out of the white sea town,
For strong was I of arm and thigh,
A wrestler of renown;
You and your dusky treases,
You and your brows of brown,
To my sheepskin tent, the way we went,
And there I set you down.

And love war the lord of Tempe,
Love like a noonday glow,
When I held you and kissed in the purple mist
It was all that a man need know.
And the smoke of our hearth stole upward,
And the bells of our flock rang low
As I clasped you tight in the smoldering light
Three thousand years ago.

—Pall Mall Gazette

A KING IN HAZOR.

In Hazor once there ruled a king
Who cared no whit for anything
Save that he might enhance his power,
Save that he might exalt his pride,
By girdling wall, by guardian tower,
By glade and meadow sweeping wide.
The bloom has blown on many a bough
Since then. Where is that monarch now?

—Clinton Scollard.

An Honor to Allison.

"Do you know," inquired Wilbur Reaser, the New York portrait painter, "that when my painting of Senator Allison was hung in the lobby of the senate the precedent of forty years was broken?"

Surprise being expressed, Mr. Reaser explained:

"It is a fact that since the beginning of constitutional government the senate had bought only nine portraits for the lobby. The first was Washington's and the eighth was Charles Sumner's. For almost forty years nobody was considered worthy to follow in the distinguished line. It was generally thought that no other portrait would ever be added to the group, but when Senator Allison died, after serving longer in the senate than any other man in the history of the government, the rule was broken, and his picture became the ninth."—Washington Times.

German Bureaucracy.

A good story is going the rounds of the French newspapers illustrating the beauties of bureaucratic government in Germany. We are told that in the postoffice department if a clerk wishes a new pencil he has to hand in the stump of the one that has become too short to work with. In the particular instance cited a clerk received his new pencil without returning the end. Before the omission was discovered the clerk was transferred to another office. Just after he had commenced his duties at his new post he received an official intimation that he had neglected to hand in his pencil end. By this time it had disappeared but to prevent bother the clerk purchased a new pencil, cut off a piece about the length of the missing bit and dispatched it to the stationery department.

Criticising Dad.

"An old man in Missouri tried to commit suicide by hanging himself with a blind bridle," said Champ Clark. "His son cut him down just in time.

"When the son cut him down and brought him to the old man complained feebly:

"'It ain't right, Henry; you've kept your old father out of heaven.'

"'You'd cut a fine figure in heaven looking through a blind bridle, wouldn't you?' retorted the son."

Proof Right There.

"So that she may marry again."

COTTON LETTER TO J. E. LATHAM.

New Orlans, La., May 17.—Liverpool continues easy for the present and old crops which again failed to confirm to the advance in our markets, but new crops were rather better than due. Spots were 3 higher, sales 7,000.

Liverpool letter says that mills have bought new crops to a considerable amount. There was some rain over night in Oklahoma, but elsewhere in the delta no rain' of consequence and none is indicated except possibly in the Southwest and Southern corner of Texas.

Our market opened flat on old crops but new crops showed a strong undertone. At times new crops were hard to buy without advancing prices. They appear sold up, whereas prospects for greater trade activity is liable to bring a further trade demand for new crop at the discount. The continued dry weather in the Atlantics is beginning to cause concern. The market became very quiet in the second hour but continued steady nevertheless. Old crops are somewhat above spot prices, which makes a little waiting perhaps preferable to bullish aggressiveness right now.

HAYWARD & CLARK.

New York, May 17.—The Journal of Commerce says:

There is a continued, steady growth of confidence in the dry goods markets, but sales not large. A few large buyers have been in the market from the West and placing orders. A large business is coming forward for printed goods for fall delivery. It is hoped the Supreme Court dicision will tend to improve business but old merchants say that when working men are better employed business in dry goods will get better in a large way and not much before then.

NORTH STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Raleigh, May 17.—S. A. Thompson, field secretary of the National Rivers & Harbors Congress, here today, has just come from an inspection trip along the Inland Waterway, especially along the Carolina coast and is enthusiastic over the progress made and the outlook. He says that in going over the situation with Capt. Earl Brown, engineer in charge of the inland waterway work on the Carolina coast, he gathered that fully 20 hundred vessels per month are now using those sections of the waterway now completed, especially the eight mile canal between Core Creek and Adams Creek above Beaufort. This canal is 12 feet deep. Mr. Thompson was much pleased with Raleigh and the evidences of prosperity here, remarking that he had seen no city of the size of Raleigh with so great an amount of building enterprises under way, evidencing a very high degree of prosperity.

Out at the Roman Catholic Orphanag near Raleigh, work is now under way on a fine new dormitory that will accommodate 100 boys. It is 180 feet by 36 feet, two stories and a jump in height, and is being constructed of granite quarried right at the orphanage. The older boys of the orphanage are doing a considerable part of the work and good progress is being made. A frame dormitory was burned three years ago and a number of the inmates narrowly escaped death in the flames. This new building is practically fire proof, being of stone and concrete.

Members of the North Carolina Society Colonial dames and others here are receiving invitations to attend the unveiling of the tablet at Fort Johnston, at the mouth of the Cape Fear River, Tuesday, May 23. Fort Johnston was the first fort in the Province of North Carolina 1746 to 1775. The party for the unveiling will gather at Wilmington and go down the river on the morning of May 23 on the Steamer Wilmington.

The Raleigh Chamber of Commerce has extended an invitation for the Southern Baptist Convention to meet here in 1913. This action was taken last night and the invitation is to be pressed with the greatest diligence on the ground that with the increased hotel facilities that are under way and the completion of the splendid new auditorium the most ample accommodation will be available.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. Y. Joyner has gone to Oxford to take part Thursday in the ceremony of dedicating a fine new $35,000 brick graded school building that is just completed ready for service in the fall when the next school year begins. He goes from Oxford to Germanton to deliver an educational address Saturday.

There came today to the state department of education information that a local tax district is just established by popular vote in Nash county, the district including the town of Bailey. Also a new local tax district in Clay county is reported by County Superintendent D. M. Stallings. The superintendent in Clay county is Robert E. Ranson. There also comes from Smithfield the news of the voting of $25,000 bonds for the erection of a new graded school building.

It is an interesting fact that in connection with the recent joint commencement of the Wilkes county public schools, the third joint commencement ever held in any county in the state, there were awarded 101 certificates of graduation from the elementary schools and passing them up to the high school department. This is a greater number than were allowed certificates in either of the other two counties that have held such county commencements, Wayne and Sampson counties.

Addie Wayne, a fifteen-year-old girl who has for a long while been a ward of the North Carolina Children's Home Society, Greensboro, died here last night in the home of Mrs. L. H. Royster and the remains are to be sent by the society to Columbus county, near Lake Waccamaw.

A charter was granted today to the Youland Hotel Co., Lakeview, Moore county, capital $50,000 authorized and $10,000 subscribed by W. E. Youland, F. R. Darby and others. The hotel is to cater especially to winter tourists.

Not to Blame For That.

"Your husband smokes too much."
"What?"
"Your husband smokes too much."
"Well, if he does it's his own fault I don't make him."

A Sunrise.

First in the east a patch of gray
That every moment grows more light,
A herald of the coming day
To put the kibosh on the night,
And then appears a purple streak
To paint a cloud that's passing by,
And soon the yellow streamers seek
The very arches of the sky.

A hush pervades the grand display,
A sense of reverence fills the mind,
Provided that's the kind of day
It is and you are so inclined;
A splash of yellow, that is all,
Dots the horizon line afar;
Then suddenly a golden ball
Springs from the ground, and there you are!

And there you are, and all is well,
Another day is on the wing.
You listen for the breakfast bell
And wonder will it ever ring.
And, though impatiently you wait,
There's satisfaction, for 'tis true
You personally have it straight,
And no one has the edge on you.

I've tried to tell it plain and clear
Without an effort at display,
Because I thought you'd like to hear
The way it happens every day.
I think that I have got it straight,
But if you doubt it rise and see.
It ought to be, at any rate.
I tell it as 'twas told to me.

Head of Oliver Cromwell Is on Exhibition In British Museum

OLIVER CROMWELL, or what is left of him, has been photographed at last. When he was alive and was known as "the Protector" photography was unknown, and our only ideas of his appearance are obtained from paintings, and artists are not always accurate, especially when their subject is a man as powerful and as influential as Cromwell was during the later years of his life. But the above picture shows what Cromwell's head looks like today, for the photograph was made only a short time ago in the British museum, where it was deposited recently by the Rev. H. R. Wilkinson. He said it had been in his family for three generations. Cromwell died in 1658 while he was still the lord protector of Great Britain. The protectorate lasted about a year after his death, and some months later parliament ordered that Cromwell's body be removed from Westminster abbey and hanged on the gallows at Tyburn, while the head was set on a pole on the top of Westminster hall. The head blew down and was picked up by a sentry, who secreted it for many years. The grewsome relic passed through several hands and was exhibited in various private museums until it came into the possession of the Wilkinson family. The picture above shows the head as it appears today and also a likeness of Cromwell painted by George Walker.

Debate Last Night.

The first number of commencement was held last night in the Smith Memorial building. The occasion was a debate between the Philomelian and Diaphesian Debating Societies. The team representing the latter, Chas. Moseley and D. Wills Hunter by a unanimous decision defeated the Philomelians, Ralph Lewis and Willard Eutsler.

In discussing the fortification of the Panama Canal, the former pair of orators conclusively proved that fortifications were absolutely vital to the unity and safety of our nation. Chas. Mosely was awarded the prize offered to the best speaker by a two to one decision over his colleague.

The Philomelians promptly destroyed the sting of defeat in a brilliant reception tendered to the opposing society and the two literary societies of the High School. The Y. W. C. A. rooms presented a merry scene, as, with gay laughter and chatter, over punch bowl and refreshment plate the enthusiastic crowd whiled away a pair of happy hours.

High School Annual Just From Press

The Reflector, the annual of the Greensboro High School, has just been issued from the press of the Christian Advocate and is the most attractively gotten up issue of the annual ever turned out by the High School. The book contains more than a hundred pages and contains the likenesses of the Senior, Junior and Intermediate classes, the athletic teams, the High School faculty and Superintendent J. L. Mann. The annual is dedicated to Wiley Hampton Swift, former superintendent, the frontispiece containing a likeness of Mr. Swift. The matter contained in the publication reflects great credit on the editorial staff. The business manager will have the book on sale and those who desire a copy will be accommodated promptly by notifying some member of the graduating class.

EPHEMERAL.

The interviews with men of state
In which dark things are hinted
Fill us with apprehension great
When they at first are printed.
But sunshine sends the clouds away.
The world has scarcely read 'em
Before the great man speaks next day
And says he never said 'em.

For economics let's adopt
A scheme of optimistics,
Nor let our joyfulness be stopped
By guesswork or statistics.
Though sad the words of mighty men,
There is no cause to dread 'em.
A few hours hence they'll speak again
And say they never said 'em.

STOCK MARKET ADVANCE WAS IMPRESSIVE

Special to Telegram.

New York, May 17.—The advance in the stock market was impressive today. Over 180 different issues were traded to the extent of nearly a million shares. Steel and Union Pacific were the acknowledged leaders, while A. T. stock advanced $26 per share, reaching the high water mark of the year—$500. Standard Oil also advanced sharply.

The upward movement was helped considerably by assurances received here that the Democratic Congressional leaders would prevent the passage of a new anti-corporation law during this session of Congress.

E. M. Caldcleugh, who has been spending some time at Mt. Vernon Springs, has returned home much improved in health.

WATCH YOUR SYMPTOMS

DANGEROUS IF YOU NEGLECT THEM, DON'T DELAY, ACT NOW

Do you ever have a "kink" in your back? Do you find it difficult to stoop over? Do you experience excruciating pain in the "small" of your back when rising from a chair or in changing from one position to another? Were the kidneys strong and healthy instead of being weak this form of backache would be unknown.

Women have backache principally from two causes: First, weak kidneys, which fail to filter the uric acid from the blood; second, from a diseased condition of the ovaries, causing a congestion of the monthly flow, resulting in painful and unnatural menstruation.

MARSH ROOT makes the kidneys strong and active and removes the uric acid which causes the pain, while HIT PRESCRIPTION No. 666 FOR THE BLOOD builds up the blood, increases its circulation, and regulates the monthly flow.

GRAVEL STONE IN THE BLADDER.

This disease is more prevalent in limestone regions, where the drinking water is hard, and among persons who are inclined to be scrofulous. It is caused by an excess of limy or sandy matter in the blood, which forms in the kidneys and bladder into stones from the size of a pea to that of an egg. Persons with this disease have great difficulty in passing their urine, which is thick and ropy with deposits. MARSH ROOT cures Gravel by dissolving the stones and deposits so that they are carried off with the urine by making the kidneys and bladder strong and healthy they do not form again.

DIABETES SUGAR IN THE URINE.

This disease is known by the enormous quantities of urine voided which is filled with sugar. It is the most wasting of diseases of the kidneys and bladder, as the food we eat is turned into sugar and is carried off through the urine instead of making good rich blood and nerve force that gives you strength and keeps up your body. The digestion plays a very important part in this disease, and relief can be obtained much sooner if you procure MARSH ROOT to build up the digestive organs.

THOUSANDS HAVE IT AND DO NOT KNOW IT UNTIL TOO LATE.

Kidneys diseases are generally found in persons whose blood is impoverished or impure, and whose nerves have not sufficient power to force to make the kidneys perform their proper function. The duty of the kidneys is to filter the blood, and when this fluid is filled with nitric acid and malarial poison they become over-burdened with extra work. When the nerves are not strong, they fail to supply the power to do this work then the kidneys become clogged and disease sets in. Kidney complaint usually commences with cold chills, especially in the back and loins, followed with fever and pain. The pain extends to the bladder, loins and thighs. Thee urine becomes highly colored or extremely light. It sometimes looks red or blood-like, with brick dust sediment after standing, or it may be stringy or milky and filled with albumen, the most vital element of the body.

When these conditions are allowed to continue they result in one or more of the following conditions: Backache, Weak Back, Rheumatism, Gout, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Gravel, Irritation of the Bladder, Scalding of the Urine Swelling of the Ankles, Dropsy, or some other form of Kidney or Urinary Trouble. MARSH ROOT has a direct and specific action in all forms of Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Troubles, and it is the only remedy that cures by the building up process, which gives the kidneys strength to cast off all poisonous matter from the blood, thus stopping the cause of all diseases of this nature.

Note to Mothers: DR. CAREY'S MARSH ROOT has proven itself to be the best known remedy for Bed-Wetting in children and old people. For use in this direction only, DR CAREY'S MARSH ROOT is worth its weight in gold. You will swear by MARSH ROOT after using it. It cures.

Proposes to End Revolution In Mexico by Dry Farming

ZEFERINO DOMINGUEZ, a Mexican millionaire farmer, has proposed a plan to end the Mexican revolution by giving each of the dissatisfied natives a small tract of land and then teaching them how to get good crops from it by the form of cultivation known as "dry farming." Accompanying the letter to Jose Yves Limantour, minister of finance, in which he outlines his plan, Senor Dominguez sent a photograph of himself, which is reproduced above. In his right hand he holds a bunch of frijoles (beans) grown on one of his haciendas by irrigation, while in his left hand he has a bunch of the same vegetable grown on the same ranch by dry farming. Under the right hand are ears of corn grown by irrigation, while under the left hand is corn grown by dry farming. Minister Limantour has indorsed the plan suggested by Senor Dominguez. The wealthy farmer has a ranch in Puebla, the heart of the locality where the revolution originated. Each of the 500 men employed on the ranch has two and a half acres of land for his own use, and he is allowed time to cultivate it. Not one of the hands has left the hacienda to join the revolutionists. Senor Dominguez would compel other landowners to give a few acres to the peons in their vicinity with the proviso that the land cannot be sold, but must be transferred only by inheritance.

SOUTHERN PRESBYTERIANS TO MEET IN LOUISVILLE, KY.

Fifty-First Session to be Held Next Week —Many Important Questions will be Considered—Among Questions is "Elect Infant Clause".

Louisville, Ky., May 17.—With an extensive program arranged for the celebration of the semi-cetntennial of the Church, and confronted with some of them ost important questions which have ever demanded its attention, the fifty-first annual General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States (Southern) will convene here next Tuesday. Delegates, both lay and ministerial, from every section of the South will be present.

The Assembly will be opened at 11 o'clock a. m. in the Second Presbyterian church, with a sermon by the retiring moderator, Rev. Jonathan W. Bachman, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Chattanooga, Tenn. Three sessions will be held daily, the Assembly extending through the following eight days.

Fifty years ago the Civil War brought about a division of the Presbyterian church into two branches, one now known as the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, and the other as the Presbyterian church in the United States. It is the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the Southern church, which will form a feature of the program to be observed by the General Assembly this year. On the first evening Rev. Alexander White, D. D. LL. D., of Columbia, S. C., will deliver an address on "The Origin of the Presbyterian church in the United States," in which he will discuss the causes which compelled the organization of the Southern church, the discouragements under which the church begins to live and the heritage of her membership from the Scotch-Irish, the Huguenots and the English. On the following morning, May 19th, Rev. Theron H Rice, D. D., of Richmond, Va., will deliver an address on "The History and Progress of the Presbyterian Church in the United States," her ministers and teachers, her missionary heroes and her triumphs, and her achievements in scholarship, education and benevolence. The evening of the same day Rev. Egbert W. Smith, D. D., of Louisville, Ky., will speak on "The Mission of the Presbyterian church in the United States," in which he will discuss the distinctive work of the church and the equipment needed in the way of men, money and spiritual power.

"Elect Infant Clause."

Probably the most important question before the assembly will be that of the so-called "elect infant" clause amendment to the Westminster Confession. The reason for the purposed change were set forth, following the General Assembly at Lewisburg, W. Va., by Rev. David M. Sweets, D. D., editor of the Chronicle Observer, as follows:

"In regard to the 'Elect Infant Clause,' the assembly suggested a change in Chapter X, Section 3, of the Confession of Faith which, it is thought, will remove the charge against the Presbyterian church of teaching infant damnation.

"This charge has often been made by those who are ignorant of the real teachings of the church, and the proposed change is intended to meet such unfounded criticisms of the church. The proposed amendment was sent down to the Presbyteries for their concurrences as follows: 'Of those whom God hath given to the Lord Jesus to be His seed, such as are incapable of being outwardly called by the ministry of the world, are regenerated and saved by Christ, through the Spirit, who worked when and where and how he pleaseth."

Of more recent date, in touching upon the same subject. Dr. Sweets has said:

No Infants Dying in Infancy Are Lost.

"There is evident dissatisfaction within the church with the wording of the amendment. The difficulty does not consist in the fact that any in the church believe in the damnation of some infants, dying in infancy, while others do not. All are agreed that the Scriptures afford sufficient warrant for the hope that no infants dying in infancy, are lost. There are others who go farther and say that the Scriptures afford sufficient warrant for asserting that all infants(dying in infancy, are elect of God and are regenerated and saved by Jesus Christ. What one class desires is a confessional statement, which affirms that all who are elect are saved, even though they die in infancy. The others wish to go further and affirm that all dying in infancy are elect and saved. The assembly will be asked to make such a change as will present a definite statement of the church's belief that all infants, dying in infancy, are elect and saved."

A recent report from Rev. A. M. Fraser, D. D., chairman of the ad interim committee on the proposed revision in connection with the "elect infant" clause, brings the information that up to May 1st, or thereabouts, only forty-four Presbyteries had approved the change recommended by the last assembly. Three-fourths of the Presbyteries must vote for the change before the assembly can enact it. Sixty-six Presbyteries, therefore, would have to approve the proposed form of revision.

A Church and State Contention Again.

In all likelihood an effort will be made to bring the so-called "North Alabama case" before the general assembly again. The North Alabama Presbytery, October 28, 1909, passed a resolution endorsing a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama, providing for prohibition in that State. A complaint was made against the resolution on the ground that it violated a section of the organic law of the church which prohibits the interference of the church with the affairs of State. The North Alabama Presbytery defended its action on the ground that there had appeared in the daily press of the State articles opposing the principle of prohibition, and these over the signature of a stated clerk of the Alabama Synod, and that in the opinion of the Presbytery these articles had greatly prejudiced the standing of the Presbyterian church in the estimation of the people of Alabama, making necessary this action upon its part. The last general assembly heard this defense, and declined to sustain the complaint against the Presbytery. An overture will be presented asking this assembly to declare whether the action of the last assembly is consistent with the Confession of Faith, and, if consistent, to declare that the decision in that case shall not be accepted as precedent in future cases.

Marrige and Divorce.

Another question of general interest which will engage the attention of the assembly will be that of marriage and divorce. Two reports on this subject were presented to the last assembly, but were recommitted for a report this year.

No, Cordelia, not all methodical people are methodists.

Coronation Pomp In the Making; "Building" a Robe For the King

The accompanying picture shows the "pinning" of the ermine for the train of one of King George's coronation robes, an operation that calls for the use of over 15,000 pins. For the train 500 skins and 650 tails were used. The order to make the coronation robes for the king and queen was given to Wilkinson & Son, who enlisted the services of various firms, specialists in their own branches. Behind the table on which the "pinning" is being done may be seen the cape of the robe. The king will wear three robes during the coronation—the royal crimson robe of state, which is worn until just before the anointing; the imperial mantle of cloth of gold and the royal robe of purple velvet, in which his majesty leaves the abbey.

PRESBYTERIANS OF UNITED STATES IN ANNUAL SESSION

General Assembly Begins Ten Days Meeting at Atlantic City Today—Most Notable Convention Held in Years —William J. Bryan will Make Address.

Special to Telegram.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 17.—With delegates present from every section of the United States, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church will begin its big ten days session tomorrow.

It is the 123rd meeting of the Assembly and in point of achievement is expected to prove the most notable convention of that body held in many years. William Jennings Bryan will be the guest of the Assembly on Friday evening, May 26th, when he will be the principal speaker at the evening session in the Music hall on the Steel Pier, which has been rented for the entire meeting.

The activities of the week began on Tuesday with a Pre-Assembly evangelistic conference attended by the early visitors in town, and was followed on Wednesday by a college presidents conference, presided over by Chancellor John H. MacCracken of New York University. On the latter day, the Home and Foreign Missionary boards held conferences in the morning, afternoon and evening at their work was discussed in all its various phases.

The Rev. Dr. J. J. Jowett, the famous English preacher, recently called to the pastorate of the fashionable Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York, was the principal speaker last evening on the pier. Robert C. Ogden presided. This was the first public appearance in the United States, outside of his New York church of Dr. Jowett.

The regular session of the Assembly opens Thursday morning at 10:30 in the Music hall on the pier with a sermon by the retiring Moderator, the Rev. Dr. Charles Little of Wabash, Indiana. This will be followed by the call of the roll of delegates, the election of a new Moderator and the selection of standing committees.

The program of the meeting, provides for sessions every morning, afternoon and evening and embraces a wide range of subjects for discussion and consideration, including home and foreign missions, temperance, christian education, immigration, Sabbath observance, evangelistic, church extension, church benevolence and ministerial relief work.

The committee in charge has arranged for a registration booth on the pier for delegates and visitors and will have its headquarters equipped with stenographers, telephone and telegraph booths, a postoffice and other conveniences for those who may desire to keep abreast of their business while away from home. Because of the size of the music hall it has also arranged for the installation of acoustieons about the auditorium and galleries so that those who have any trouble in hearing may keep in touch with the proceedings without difficulty.

On Wednesday afternoon the 24th from 4:30 to 6:30, the Home and Foreign mission societies will give a reception at the Hotel Chalfonte to foreign missionaries and those interested in their work and at 8 o'clock the following evening there will be a public reception in the Music hall on the pier to the delegates, visitors and guests of the Assembly with the new Moderator and the Hon. Allan Brown Endicott presiding.

On Monday, the 22nd, at 4 o'clock the centennial of the founding of the theological seminary will be celebrated with fitting exercises.

In connection with the meeting of the Assembly, the annual meeting of the Women's Board of Home Missions will be held in the First Presbyterian church commencing tomorrow and continuing to the 24th. The Woman's Board of Foreign Missions will hold their annual meeting in the same church on the 22nd.

TEN THOUSAND DRUGGISTS

Unite in Their Opinion Regarding a Certain Medicine.

Druggists should know better than any one else the value of every medicine.

Therefore, when over ten thousand recommend Vinol, the cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, over their own signatures as the greatest tonic reconstructor and strength creator — and offer to return the purchase money in every case where it fails to give satisfaction, it must indicate that Vinol is a pretty reliable medicine.

We could publish columns of such testimony as the following:

C. A. Potterfield, the leading druggist of Charleston, W. Va., says he used Vinol for every member of his family and has never been disappointed with the results.

Mr. J. F. Bradley, druggist, of New Brunswick, N. J., says, "Vinol is certinly a wonderful medicine. I have proved it from personal experience."

The many years that Vinol has been on the market has served to strengthen its popularity, and proved by continued tests that it will do all that is claimed for it.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not build up your strength and give you an added interest in life. Fariss-Klutz Drug Co., Greensboro, N. C.

Husband—Why, this is the pendant you admired so yesterday. Aren't you pleased with it?

Wife—No, but I haven't had time enough to long for it yet.—Sourire.

Grandmother—And now would you like me to tell you a story, dears?

Advanced Child—Oh, no, granny, not a story, please! Hhey're so stodgy and unconvincing and as out-of-date as tunes in music. We should much prefer an impressionist, word-pioure or a suitable character sketch.—Punch.

SALARY LIMIT EFFECTIVE NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT

The time is approaching fleetly when the managers of the clubs in the Carolina Association will be forced to curtail their playing forces sufficiently to maintain the salary limit of $1,250. President J. H. Wearn has fixed Saturday as the last day for the clubs to hold on to their present playing equipment, which mans that the teams will take the field Monday with their season's quota of men. It is very evident that some of the managers are not ready to get down to business yet. Many disappointments have occurred in their prospectives and the duty is imperative for them to go out and seek others to take places unfilled by their present material.

It will, therefore, be some time before the teams get down to a good, sound playing basis. Some of them will not be bothered by the formal notice to get right with the salary limit, notably Winston-Salem, Greensboro and Greenville, all of which have teams that look as if they could go through the season without change. But it is somewhat different with Spartanburg, vastly so with Charlotte and Anderson, both of which teams are yet unsettled. Many places are likely to be filled with new men on these clubs, especially in the pitching department. Spartanburg has three infielders to report to the club yet, Wofford, Wideman and Stevenson, all of whom are capable men. One of them will likely be sold or let out and when Wofford returns Bill Wynne may have to seek other climes. Charlotte has Tommie McMillan to take care of in the field and he is slated for short unless Weiser braces up and shows great form. He is undoubtedly one of the most promising players in the league, but is still a little green in spots. There are likely to be several changes on some of the line-ups before long.—Charlotte Observer.

A Few 'Cascarets' Cure Constipation

Pleasant, Gentle, Though the Most Effective Remedy in the World for Sluggish Bowels or a Lazy Liver.

In the old days physic was dreadful—calomel, castor oil, salts or cathartics. And they were worse than they seemed for they irritated the stomach and bowels. They acted much as pepper acts in the nostrils. They flooded the bowels with fluids. But those fluids were digestive juices. And a waste today means a lack tomorrow. You secured relief, but you were actually worse off than without it.

It's different with Cascarets. Their effect is the same as that of laxative foods, or of exercise. They stimulate the bowels to natural action. No griping, no. They act as a bowel tonic.

The old way, too, was to take large doses of physic. People waited until the bowels were clogged. The new way is to take one Cascaret when you need it. Carry the box in your pocket or purse. Ward off the troubles instantly. The modern plan is to keep at your best. The old way wasted too many good hours. Get a 10 cent box of Cascarets now.

PATRIOTS AND TWINS CLASH AT CONE PARK TODAY

Tony Walters will Twirl for Doyle's Bunch, While Swindell will Likely Pitch for Winston—Battle for top of Percentage Column.

This afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at Cone Athletic Park Doyle's men and Clancy's Twins will meet for the first time this season on the local diamond. Dr. Tony Walters will pitch today for Greensboro and Swindell will probably be on the knoll for Winston-Salem. Thus a splendid pitchers' battle is anticipated. The same teams will play here tomorrow and Saturday.

Added interest is attached to the series of games for the reason that Winston and Greensboro are running so close a race for the top place in the percentage column. If the Twins get two of the three games they will be on top, but the Patriots intend taking at least two of the three themselves which will prevent the Twins from getting on top this week.

As the teams are so close together and the fact that Dr. Walters will make his initial appearance for the season, today, there will no doubt be a large crowd on hand today.

HORNETS TOOK LAST GAME IN EXCITING FINISH IN NINTH

Charlotte, May 17.—Charlotte took the final game of the series in the ninth inning today by the score of 10 to 9. Garman smashed out a home run, but inasmuch as the run ahead of him made the winning one, he is credited for only a single and does not get credit for the home run. Wallace had his game won at several points, but the fielders behind him were not in shape. Stewart played a poor game at short and was directly responsible for three of the runs made by the Hornets. Van Pelt, the mill boy pitched for the locals and save in two innings was in good form. Charlotte tried out a new catcher, Malconson, who hails from Boston. He did well.

Score by innings:				R.	H.	E.
Charlotte	023	100	202	10	10	7
Greensboro	000	122	103	9	9	5

Batteries: Charlotte, Van Pelt and Malconson; Greensboro, Wallace and Nippert.

MANY FEATURES IN SPARTANBURG ANDERSON GAME

Anderson, May 17.—Spartanburg won the last game of the series here from the locals this afternoon 13 to 8. The game abounded with runs, hits, errors, punky plays and pitchers. Anderson's errors were the most expensive and can be given as the cause of the result.

Score by innings:				R.	H.	E.
Spartanburg	022	063	000	13	16	4
Anderson	100	110	500	8	13	8

Batteries: Ferrell, Smith, Lyon and Westlake; McCown, Clark, Crouch and Klock. Umpire, Nugent.

SPINNERS DOWN CLANCY'S TWINS IN FINAL GAME

Winston-Salem, May 17.—Greenville took the last of the series this afternoon in a pretty game in which the effectiveness of Jamison featured, score 4 to 2. Boyle who pitched for the Twins was hit when they counted. Jamison was wild for the first few innings and it looked as if he were going to have a bad day of it, but after the second in which the Twins scored once and the sixth when Boyle hit one over the fence he was invincible.

Boyle's pretty base-running and fielding was a feature. Yates on third made a couple of beautiful stops, Clancy's work at short and Smith's at third were good. Spencer made a brilliant catch of a foul to right. The fielding of both teams was fast and snappy, the bunched hits of the Greenville team did the work.

Score by innings:				R.	H.	E.
Greenville	201	000	010	4	9	2
Winston-Salem	010	001	000	2	5	3

Batteries: For Greenville, Jamison and Kite; for Winston-Salem, Boyle and Galvin.

DIAMOND DUST

Baseball today.

Game will be called at 4:30.

Tony Walters will pitch.

Looks like a big week for us.

Swindell will be on the slab for Winston.

We shouldn't expect to win them all.

If we were to win every game we would soon break up this league.

If you will cast your optics at the percentage column you will see we are still on the top perch.

Let's have a big crowd out today to back up Tony and the rest of the team.

Good time to show Winston which is the best team in this league.

Two straight games may help keep some of that Winston crowd away Saturday, but we can't help that.

Hope Corwin will be able to be in the game tomorrow.

Bentley looked so dangerous with his wagon tongue that he was passed up three times out of his four trips to the plate.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Today's attendance will probably be one of the biggest of the season.

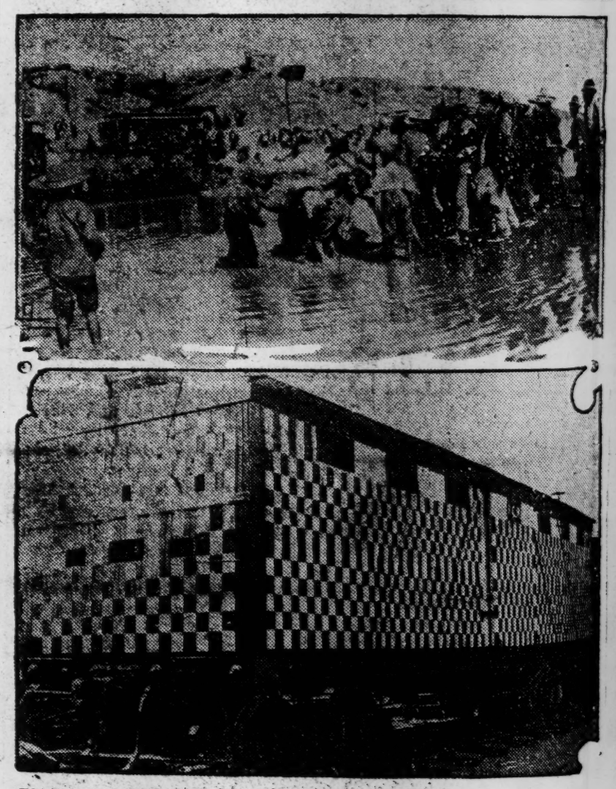
Armored Freight Car Is Used Against Mexican Insurrectos



Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

WHILE many inventors have been trying to make war horrible by increasing the destructiveness of weapons, the Mexican government is trying to make it picturesque. One of the methods adopted is the use of armored freight cars painted like checkerboards. These cars, covered with sheet steel that will resist even the steel jacketed rifle bullets, are equipped with machine guns of wide range. The cars are painted with the black and white squares so that the insurrectos, many of whom are good marksmen, can't select the porthole through which the muzzle of the machine gun protrudes and fire at it. The porthole will look black, like a black square, and therefore does not serve as the center of a target. The other picture printed above shows a group of insurrectos on the northern border who have quit fighting for the time to scramble for oranges thrown into the Rio Grande from the American side. They are devoting themselves to the task with much enthusiasm.
